Labor with what zeal we will,
Something still remains undone—
Something uncompleted still
Waits the rising of the sun

By the bedside, on the stair,
At the threshold, near the gates,
With its menace or its prayer,
Like a mendicant it waits;

Waits, and will not go away,
Waits, and will not be gainsaid;
By the cares of yesterday
Each to-day is heavier made;

Till at length the burden seems
Greater than our strength can bear,
Heavy as the weight of dreams,
Pressing on us everywhere.

And we stand from day to day,
Like the dwarfs of times gone by,
Who, as Northern legends say,
On their shoulders held the sky

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD AND THE CHINA TRADE.—The London Economist has an article in which the possible effects on the China trade, of the Pacific Railroad, are discussed. The writer believes that the road between New York and San Francisco will not divert so much of the European trade with the East as many persons appear to suppose, that the American traffic will go by that route but for the Old World, the sea and the overland journey will be preferable. We quote a passage:

The time allowed by the present mail contract with the Peninsula and Oriental Company may be advantageously compared with the time proposed by way of New York and San Francisco, allowing ten days for the mails between London and New York, and six days [illegible] the continent. The [illegible] (not [illegible] the stoppages) is as follows:

By Marseilles and Bombay—London to Hongkong, in 39 days; London to Shanghae, 43 days; London to Yokohama 48 days.

By New York and San Francisco—London to Hongkong, in 47 days; London to Shanghae, 43 days; London to Yokohama, 38 days.

We can thus get to Shanghae as quickly by the present mail route as by the new one, and without so long a railway journey, which is rather an important consideration for travelers; we also get to Hongkong much more quickly, though with regard to Yokohama and Japan the new line will clearly have the advantage. * * * Europe will gain by the new route, so far as Japan and New Zealand are concerned, but in no other respect, except in having a competing line to the more distant ports of China. This being the case, the Indian trade is, of course, out of the question by the new routes.

Andrew Johnson proposes to devote the rest of his life to the vindication of his past life. It will need at least that long. We are afraid his vindication will be like that ball dress which "began too late, ended too soon," and was too thin while it lasted.

The Bishop of New Jersey it is said, has giv[illegible] that he will refuse at confirmation to lay his hands upon the piles of false hair and chi[illegible] which disfigure the heads of so many young ladies seeking admission to the church and communion.

HIRAM SLOTH'S

Ophthalmic Panacea!

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered.

It CURES the most stubborn and hopeless cases of CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS, GRANULATED LIDS, FILMS, &c., as has been sufficiently demonstrated during the few months in which it has been brought into public notice. The proprietor is so fully convinced of its INFALLIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR REFUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eyes no harm, and a trial of it is therefore without injury or expense to the patient if a cure is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN, and even EIGHTEEN YEARS' standing in Harrisburg, Linn county, Oregon, and its vicinity, to which the following persons will bear witness:

E. B. MOORE, NATHANIEL BELL,
A. L. WALLACE, G. R. WARD,
Mrs MONTGOMERY, JOHN M. HOLLOWAY,
W. D. PORTER, ROB'T RAMSEY,

And others in that vicinity.

Persons afflicted with the distressing scourge of diseased eyes are advised to give this remedy a fair trial on the NO CURE, NO PAY and NO INJURY plan.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.—In the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon. In the matter of Wm. H. Spencer, Bankrupt. Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed in said Court by Wm. H. Spencer, of the city of Portland, Multnomah County, Oregon, in said District, duly declared a bankrupt under the Act of Congress of March 2d, 1867, for a discharge and certificate thereof from all his debts and other claims provable under said act, and that the 22d day of May, A. D. 1869, at 10 o'clock A. M. is assigned for the hearing of the same before said court, when and where creditors of said Bankrupt may attend and show cause why the prayer of said petition should not be granted, and that the second and third meetings of the creditors of said bankrupt will be held upon the same day at 10 o'clock A. M. before W. Lair Hill, Esq., Register in Bankruptcy for said District, at his office at the city of Portland, Oregon.

R. WILCOX,
Clerk of the U. S. District Court for Oregon.
April 30, 1869. m1d1t3w

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE THAT ON THE 19TH day of April, A. D. 1869, a warrant of Bankruptcy was issued out of the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, against the estate of John Stephens, of Lafayette, in the county of Yamhill, in said District, adjudged a bankrupt on his own petition. That the payment of any debts and the delivery of any property belonging to said bankrupt, to him, to his use or for his use, and the transfer of any property by him, said debtor, are forbidden by law; that a meeting of the creditors of said bankrupt, to prove their debts, and to choose one or more assignees of his estate, will be held at a Court of Bankruptcy, to be holden at the office of Hill & Mulkey, in Portland, aforesaid, before W. Lair Hill, Esq., Register in Bankruptcy for said District, on the 29th day of May, 1869, at 10 o'clock A. M.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,

AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

OF

Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana,

TELEGRAMS FROM

are published as full as in the California journals, and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE.

Among its corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on Eastern affairs, both politically and commercially from an Oregon standpoint.

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.

TERMS:

One Year	$3 00.
Six Months	2 00.
Three Months	1 00.

The WEEKLY OREGONIAN has been a favorite paper for mailing to friends in the East. It will be mailed from the office at subscription rates.

Subscribers will find on each paper, with their names, the date on which their subscriptions expire, as entered on our books. In renewing, the name of subscriber and post office should be distinctly written.

All papers are discontinued at the end of the time for which they have been paid, the date of which is always printed with the name each week.

REMIT BY MAIL AT OUR RISK, in presence of Postmaster, or pay to the nearest authorized agent.

We ask our friends to aid us in extending the circulation of the OREGONIAN in every direction.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW [illegible]

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a [illegible] ence from the affects of secret indulgences, or [illegible] absorbed into the system! Look at their [illegible] ted and disfigured faces and their broken [illegible] tions, disqualifying them for the happiness of [illegible] or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid [illegible] sands suffer until death closes the scene. Let guardians, friends, attend to those who are [illegible] any of these horrible life-destroying [illegible] they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, [illegible] who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases, [illegible] mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, [illegible] in curing all diseases in a few days, imp[illegible] public by using the names of eminent [illegible] Europe and other places. Be therefore [illegible] strict inquiry, or you may fall into the [illegible] charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal [illegible], the consequence of solitary vice, or depraved sexual indul[illegible] by the youth of both sexes to an almost [illegible] producing, with unerring certainty, the [illegible] of morbid symptoms, unless combated by [illegible] ical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, [illegible] the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the [illegible] the rustling of leaves and rattling of [illegible] about the loins, weakness of the limbs, [illegible] blunted intellect, loss of confidence, [illegible] proaching strangers, a dislike to form new [illegible] a disposition to shun society, loss of [illegible] flushes; pimples and various eruptions about the [illegible] furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, [illegible] sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. [illegible] not obtained, should apply immediately, [illegible] or by letter, and have a cure effected by his [illegible] antific mode of treating this disease, which he [illegible] affecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. [illegible] Hundred Dollars to any person who will pr[illegible] rily to him that he was cured of this complaint [illegible] of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are [illegible] under any of these fearful maladies, should [illegible] grave responsibility resting upon them [illegible] obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and [illegible] patients a written agreement, by [illegible] radical and permanent cure, or make [illegible]

CURED AT HOME

P[illegible] at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, sta[illegible] toms, length of time the d[illegible] has run [illegible] or promptly forwarded, free [illegible] curiosity, to any part of the [illegible] directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in [illegible] ter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and [illegible] who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose [illegible] are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers [illegible] San Francisco and other places, are [illegible] and [illegible] lazy to work at their trades. Some are [illegible] makers, newspaper carriers, intelligence [illegible] etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory [illegible] will not find their Medical Institutes in it [illegible] find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1868. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you [illegible] may save you many regrets; for, as [illegible] physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy [illegible] call at his office of his ability to treat [illegible] proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearny street, corner Commercial, (Private Entrance on C[illegible]) San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform Dr. [illegible] that they read his advertisement in the Daily O[illegible].

CURE FOR COUGH OR COLD.—As soon as there is the slightest uneasiness of the Chest, with difficulty of breathing, or indications of Cough, take during the day a few "Brown's Bronchial Troches." Containing demulcent ingredients, they allay Pulmonary Irritation. Have them in readiness upon the first appearance of a Cold or Cough.

IT is nothing more than the truth, if people tell you that though KOHN & FISHEL are not selling off at cost, they nevertheless do sell at lower rates than any other house in Oregon. Their stock of Clothing cannot be surpassed. It is undoubtedly the finest, neatest and most fashionable in the State. Every person would do well to call on Kohn & Fishel, No. 91 Front street, before purchasing elsewhere.

MR. M. REESE, the millionaire of San Francisco, visited and patronized THE OREGON DISPENSARY on his first arrival in this city, because he heard that it was the cheapest and most elegant Drug Store on the coast. We also are furnishing the toilet articles and medicines to the guests of Mr. Holladay for the excursion trip to Victoria and Puget Sound, which is a further evidence of our increased popularity. Everybody now procures all articles in our line at THE DISPENSARY because our medicines and goods are fresh, pure and cheap.

TEETH EXTRACTED
By Dr. Richardson's Apparatus, Lately Improved by Dr. Koehler, with Ether Spray.

WILLIAM KOEHLER,
DENTIST.

OFFICE—Southwest corner Front and Yamhill streets, opposite E. J. Northrup & Co.'s Hardware Store.
I am now making, amongst other numerous styles of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, the improved Vulcanite Plates of Dr. G. W. Cool's Patent, patented Dec. 3d, 1867, the improvement of which consists in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold. It not only makes the plate double as strong but cleanlier than the common Vulcanite Plate. It also can by it be made considerably thinner and lighter, whereas the price is but little above that for common Plates. Call and see specimens.
N. B.—Dentists wishing to secure the office right for Dr. G. W. Cool's Improved Vulcanite Plates, can have it made out to them by applying to the office.
N. B.—To strangers I would say, that a constantly increasing Dental Practice for the last five years in this city, will be a sufficient guarantee for them to receive a First-Class and Finished Piece of Work. Numerous testimonials to the same can be given at the office.
Dental Consultations Free of Charge to all.

TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 4, 1869.

Imaginary "Specs of War."

Some of the newspapers of the sensational order, and, indeed some which are not much given to the expression of needless fears, are talking about specs of war on our English and Spanish horizons. There is little doubt but that the less considerate of the Democratic press and leaders of the country would be more than willing that the Alabama claims question, the Cuban question, the Mary Lowell seizure, etc., should so involve the Administration as to bring on a conflict with either Spain or England, or with both, in the hope that the consequences would be disastrous, politically, to the Administration and correspondingly advantageous to the Democracy. It is perhaps little doubtful that most, if not all, the sensation reports sent out over the country, relating to the designs of the Cabinet upon Cuba and the possible complications with Spain, France or England, originate with those who are hostile to President Grant, and who seek thus to infuse into the minds of the people alarm and distrust of the Administration. But such reports, examined with any care, will all be found without foundation. In relation to the Alabama claims, though the treaty has been rejected by the U. S. Senate, nothing has occurred nor has anything been said by the representatives of either government which would lead away from an amicable settlement of the question. At no time, since the occasion for the dispute arose have the English manifested more clearly than now, a desire for the peaceful adjustment of all questions of difference with the American Government. There has been no threatening or issues of menaces either open or covert, on the part of the English Government, in consequence of the rejection of the Alabama treaty. There have been expressions of surprise and regret, it is true; but nothing more serious. In the United States Senate, even Mr. Sumner, whose speech was the broadest of any yet uttered in its claims upon the English Government, took occasion to say that he neither desired nor expected war, though every clause of the claims he urged should be peremptorily pressed. He not only took the ground that our Government should be reimbursed for all the damages done to our shipping through the [...] [...]ed by England, but that, that Government, in the final settlement should render us a suitable apology and a recognition of the principles of international law applying to the matter in issue, as held by the United States. This of course created some [...] on the other side of the Atlantic, not so much because Senator Sumner uttered it as because the Senate substantially subscribed to the proposition by the rejection of the treaty. But we have seen nothing yet in the declarations of either the English ministry or press to indicate an intention to refuse acquiescence. So far from breeding war, the high ground taken by the Senate will most unquestionably be the shortest course to a definite and satisfactory settlement of the Alabama question, by diplomacy.

The stuff sent abroad by telegraph about the views of Grant and the Cabinet concerning Cuba, is even more purely sensational and foolish. The fitting out of vessels by our Government do not mean war, as we have been assured. Recruiting for the army and navy, is going on simply because the expiration of terms of service are so numerous that in a short time the forces would, otherwise, fall below the minimum of even the reduced [...], and not as some sensational correspondents [...], because the Government wished to provide for possible war contingencies. The most reliable assurances we have, are to the effect that the President and Cabinet have no intention of interfering between Spain and the insurgents of Cuba, unless the latter should organize a government de facto, and then no further than to extend the usual recognition. We repeat, there is nothing in our diplomatic relations with foreign powers which threatens the interruption of peace, and all the dispatches sent out by newspaper correspondents foreboding war, are simply sensational nonsense.

Small Notes.

The applications for passage on the Pacific Railroad, are said to already number fifteen thousand.

Reckoning upon the census roughly taken in 1868, it is calculated that the population of the United States will be over 42,000,000 in 1870.

The little breeze of alarm concerning Indian affairs in Idaho, has blown over, and everything is reported lovely along the line of the Snake river.

The New York Herald is complaining that Grant is giving offices to his relatives. It is lucky for the country that the Herald man don't belong to the Grant family.

A circular from the New York News Company, [...] March 1st, says: "As soon as the Pacific Railroad is finished there will be two mails, daily, started for the Pacific States and Territories."

In the recent confessions of an office hunter it is said that, "whenever Grant gives a man an office, no cigars are visible. Whenever he offers a cigar, the applicant may as well pack his trunk and go home, as I have done."

There is a fearful warning to ladies who are in the habit of using artificial means to enhance their beauty, in the case of a young lady of San Francisco, who recently took a dose of arsenic to beautify her complexion, and died from the effects of the poison in a few hours.

An Eastern exchange says: "'The Forty Thieves' is shortly to be reconstructed in the East. New music, dances, and characters will be introduced." As Beriah is pretty much "played out" on the Pacific coast, it might be worth while for him to apply for a re-engagement with the old company.

The Call says there is not money enough in the San Francisco treasury to pay the salaries of local officers, much less to meet the expenses of all the people who will visit the city on the celebration of the completion of the railroad. How could there be, when such a large proportion of the circulating medium of the Pacific coast is locked up in the safe at Salem?

The Alta of the 28th ult. has an article on the California and Oregon railroad, in which it says: "The energies of Mr. Sandford and his associates will be confined, after the completion of the Western Pacific, to the California and Oregon road, which last will follow the Elliott survey, passing near Shasta, Yreka and Jacksonville. It is to the interest of California to have a road built over this route as soon as possible, to accommodate the coast trade, but whatever main or branch roads may be needed to enrich Oregon, should also be built. We need a direct road to give us cheap access to the Willamette Valley and Puget Sound. This State does not wish to compel the Oregonians to come this way to reach New York. The profit which we should derive from their passage through our State by a circuitous and expensive route would be far less than we should get from their custom if their wealth and numbers were increased by the construction of main and branch railroads, giving them the cheapest and quickest possible access to the Eastern markets. Interest and liberality go hand and hand in this matter. The development of Oregon is far more important to California than the profit of any Railroad company."

The Idaho Statesman says that since President Grant announced his policy of appointing only Quakers as Indian Agents, the entire delegation of Idahoans at Washington have arrayed themselves in broad brimmed hats and organized a Quaker prayer meeting. The Statesman fears that when they come back to Idaho in their new style habiliments, their most intimate friends won't know them.

Eastern papers say that the late action of Congress and the President in relation to reconstruction matters has acted like a charm in Virginia, in the way of reviving the spirits of the people and lending an impetus to business. Satisfaction with the turn of events is almost universal, the exceptions being only a few sullen and impracticable reactionists who still harbor the ghost of the "lost cause."

Since the nomination of Col Moore by the Democracy of Washington Territory, the Democratic papers have been as silent as mice about "carpet-baggers" and all that sort of thing. Moore came out here some months ago with the commission of Governor in his pocket. There is no earthly reason to believe he would have come if that document had not drawn him away from his home in Ohio. Should he be defeated for Congress, he will probably pack up his carpet bag and return to Ohio.

The Missouri Democrat says: "A newspaper passed through the Lexington, Ky., postoffice a day or two since, addressed to 'Petroleum V. Nasby, P. M., Confederate Cross Roads, Ky.' It was mailed in Oregon, and proves the existence of fools even in that distant locality." The Long Tom, Soap creek and Santiam Forks Confederates believe in Nasby as religiously as in Pendleton or Jeff. Davis, and will never give up the opinion that the greatest mistake of Andy Johnson was in not making Petroleum a member of his Cabinet.

Republican Victory at Oregon City.

The following dispatch was received last evening:

OREGON CITY, May 3, 1869.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

At the municipal election the Republicans carried the city, to-day, by twenty majority. Elected the whole ticket.

(Signed) J. M. FRAZER

CITY PRINTING.—One of the beauties of the economy practiced by the Democratic majority in the City Council in regard to the city printing is the fact that more than half of the work is utterly useless. When the Democrats got control of the Council and had let the printing contract to the Herald, they ordered that all the ordinances be published—a thing which had not been done before. This more than doubled the cost of the work. Most of these ordinances relate to street improvements and the same matter, after standing in type for ten days, often goes into another ordinance without disturbing the body type and does service for another ten days at the rate of $3 per square for each ten days. In most of these cases one insertion, even had the matter enough interest to warrant its publication at all, would be quite sufficient. But the Council, for no other purpose than to fatten the job given, in flagrant violation of the city's interests, to the Herald, authorized such useless printing. It would be vastly more interesting to the public if the Council should order published Hallock's vapid declamations or Boyd's owlishly oracular decisions on parliamentary law; and, considering the still urgent needs of the Herald, we have often wondered at the modesty of these gentlemen in refraining from doing it.

DEAD.—The newspaper published at Richmond called The Southern Opinion, has gone dead. It was devoted to the peculiar ideas of the "lost cause." Its editor in his leave taking, complains that the sentiments which it was established to foster and keep alive are dead in the hearts of the people. One of the Opinion's dying groans is the following. "No cause, however just or good, can long outlive defeat." The poor man ought to be comforted with the reflection that though the Southern people have given up the "lost cause" as lost beyond redemption, and have almost ceased to regret it, the Northern Democracy are as warmly devoted to it as ever. It would greatly cheer the despondent heart of the Opinion's editor if he could hear any of our Democratic editors pledge their faithful devotion, through life and through death, to the "dead issues."

OREGON.

The Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. is to meet at Salem on the 18th inst.

The people of Southern Oregon are already enjoying the luxury of new potatoes.

There were nine divorces granted by the circuit court for Lane county last week.

Mrs. C. M. Sawtelle is lecturing in the Umpqua valley on the topic of woman's rights.

The citizens of Lane county are taking the preliminary steps for a county fair to be held next fall.

Hon. J. H. D. Henderson arrived home from Washington last Thursday. Mr. Pengra reached home a few days sooner.

The next session of the Teachers' Association of Douglas county, will begin on Friday, May 28th, and will continue two days.

During the last month a great number of horses have been taken from the Wallamet valley, overland to the markets of California and Nevada.

The Ensign says Hon. Rufus Mallory and wife arrived at Roseburg on the 25th ult., and spent the week in visiting their friends in that locality. They left for Salem on Saturday.

The Eugene Guard says the suit of Mulkey vs. Rinehart, action for false imprisonment, has been compromised, the defendant paying the plaintiff $200 and the costs of the suit. The damages originally claimed were $10,000. When the case came up at first it was dismissed from the docket for want of jurisdiction in the circuit court. Being appealed to the supreme court, it was sent back to the circuit court for trial, but the jury failing to agree it was continued till the spring term.

The Eugene Guard says: Thomas Kesey, a young man nineteen years of age, was drowned last Saturday while attempting to cross the Coast Fork, at Dudley & Fox's ferry. He rode into the river, and got into swimming water. His horse did not try to swim, but plunged about. Mr. K. fell off into the water and started to swim to the shore, but being burdened with his clothes he sank when within about fifteen feet of the bank. He never rose after going down the first time. In swimming he pulled off his boots and tore off part of his vest. His body was found the next day within about ten feet of the place where it went down. He leaves a widowed mother and several sisters and brothers to mourn his untimely death.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

DATES TO MAY 3.

Union Pacific Railroad

CHICAGO, May 2. The report of Chauncey M. Snow, Commissioner of the Union Pacific Railroad has caused alarm among holders of bonds and inquiries are being made concerning the responsibility of the company and its respect to the security of the bondholders. Several heavy bondholders will visit the road next week.

Governors of Montana and New Mexico.

A special dispatch [...] to remove Mr. Ashley, Governor of Montana, notwithstanding a strong pressure.

In a Cabinet meeting yesterday it was agreed to retain the present Governor Mitchell, as Governor of New Mexico, until Congress removes. [...] It is understood, however that Mitchell declines to remain there, therefore, will necessitate the appointment of a temporary Governor.

Gen. Rosecrans favors a loan of several millions to Mexico for which she will give the United States a mortgage on Sonora, and perhaps sell us that Territory at a reasonable figure. He desires to remain long enough to carry out that scheme, but Minister Nelson left about the middle of May.

Sumner and the Alabama Claims

NEW YORK, May 3.—A correspondent has interviewed Sumner on the Alabama claims and the opinions of the British press. Mr Sumner thinks the assertions of the British press should be received with caution, for the reason that England never likes to be told the truth, particularly when in the wrong. He did not express surprise at the alarm which now exists in that country, as the British people have seen the unanimity with which the Senate supported him in his views and rejected the Johnson Stanley treaty, to which state of facts they will soon have added—despite the shifts of the London Times—the disagreeable alternative that President Grant coincides completely with his views. Mr. Sumner thinks the difficulty will not lead to war, as he appears fully confident that England will pay the amount of the bill in preference to fighting. The Senator declares there shall be no yielding on the part of the American people after Mr. Motley has made known their wishes to the English Cabinet.

New York News

NEW YORK, May 2.—The jury in the Tyler manslaughter case returned a verdict of not guilty against the policemen.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The directors of several railroad and steamship lines meet here soon to arrange a tariff of freights. The Pacific Mail steamers are taking a large quantity of freight for California at lower rates than the overland railroad.

A private letter says that the English have burned three villages near Swatow and killed 55 Chinamen.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The storm yesterday was the severest for many years. Rain fell in torrents. The gale was quite damaging to street awnings, etc. Hoboken flat was completely inundated and many occupants of buildings had to be removed in steamboats.

The Alabama Claims.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—It is reliably ascertained that the instructions of the Government to Minister Motley did not suggest any mode of adjusting the pending question between the United States and England, nor do they require him at present to oppose the reopening of negotiations for the settlement of the Alabama and other claims. The Government will act with that deliberation due to the importance of the subject, and carefully avoid any cause of offence while firmly presenting the American side of the question to the British Government when occasion requires. No one connected with the administration, including the President, nor the British minister apprehends any injurious consequences from the rejection of the treaty by the Senate and this is stated on the assertion of a gentleman who was fearful of serious difficulties, and made special and private inquiries in official circles and thus satisfied himself of the truth of this statement.

Vote on the Virginia Constitution

Information is received here that a gentleman of Richmond, in conversation with Gen. Canby, received the impression that the vote on the Constitution will not take place on the 4th of May, but probably between the 1st and 10th of July, so as not to interfere with the harvest. The general also desires the rough registration and is anxious that the citizens of all parties shall interest themselves in securing a full and fair vote. The probability is that the President will be governed by Gen. Canby's suggestion.

Southern Pacific Railroad.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—Francis B. Hays and Charles J Merrill, of Boston, Directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad, are here, accompanied by Andrew Pence, Managing Director. They leave to-morrow for Southwest Missouri on a tour of inspection of the work already done on the road, and to arrange for placing more road under contract. Iron and rolling stock for the road are arriving and the work of construction is being vigorously pushed.

Fire in a Church.

ROCHESTER, May 2.—This evening a fire was discovered on the tower of the First Presbyterian Church. The tower was destroyed and the interior of the church badly damaged before the flames could be suppressed. The adjoining chapel was also badly damaged by the falling of the tower of the church. The organ has been removed. The fire was the work of an incendiary.

OMAHA, May 2.—The steamer Nick Wall, from St. Louis, bound to Fort Benton, was snagged below Brownsville and sunk. The cargo will be lost.

Tennessee News

MEMPHIS, May 3.—Seventeen deaths during the past week are reported.

The Appeal learns that a riot occurred in Brownsville, Tenn., last night in which one white man and two negroes were killed and another man named Tom Grant fatally wounded. The affair grew out of threatening to kill a white man named Sherman. Another negro took up the quarrel, which soon became general. At 11 o'clock last night the fight was still going on.

South American News

NEW YORK, May 3.—A Lima letter says the colony of Americans in Peru is anxiously waiting to hear the decision of Secretary Fish in the matter of their claims for damages received from Balta's troops during the revolution.

Yellow fever is raging fiercely in cities on the southern coast, where an average of forty persons die every day, though the greater portion of the population have fled to healthier regions. Bodies are thrown without coffins or shrouds into trenches.

A Valparaiso letter states that the proposed convention at Washington to settle the difficulties between Spain and Chile has finally been accepted by the latter.

From Cuba.

HAVANA, May 2.—In the sugar market for the past week, a large business was done. Prices are steady and closed buoyant at 12 and 9 reals for Nos. 1 and 2; 13@11 for No. 16 to 20.

Miscellaneous.

SCRANTON, PA., May 2.—The Miners' Association notified the coal operators of this county yesterday, that no more coal will be cut or loaded after the 9th.

On Friday night the safe of Schoenmaker & Son was blown open and robbed of $7,000 in gold and railroad bonds and $3,000 in currency.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., May 2.—The printers of this city are on a strike. They demand 40 and 45 cents per thousand, and the employers refuse to pay that scale.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—The rain storm which has prevailed for the last two days was interrupted this morning by a fall of snow which continued an hour.

Minnesota produced seventeen million bushels of wheat last year, being an increase of five million over the year previous. It is estimated that three million bushels are in store along the rivers in Minnesota.

CHICAGO, May 2. The Tribune's New York special says a north-easter prevailed yesterday, doing considerable damage to shipping. Several vessels are reported missing.

Gen. Jones assumed the duties of postmaster yesterday.

The Associated Press meets on Tuesday to investigate the charges against John Russell Young in relation to furnishing news to a paper outside of the Association.

An advance in the coal market is expected owing to the extensive strike among the Pennsylvania miners.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE

LONDON, April [illegible]. The Mayor of Cork was at a recent banquet in that city. This was the subject of long debates in both houses of Parliament this evening. The attention of members was called especially to the Mayor's language respecting Farrell, who attempted to assassinate Prince Alfred in Sydney. Reference was also made to the Prince himself. The Tories upbraided the Government for being the indirect cause of the present state of Ireland. In the House of Commons, Bright said he thought the present condition of affairs in Ireland gives no cause for a panic, but he urged that both parties should strive to remedy the land grievances question at this session of Parliament. For himself he would not remain on the Treasury bench if he did not feel that he was honestly and energetically directing measures which would make great and salutary changes in Ireland. The sentiment of the church question will not stay the present outrages in that portion of the United Kingdom, but it is the first example any party has ever given that it was willing to do justice to Ireland, and it is an earnest of that intention.

Gladstone followed in support of Bright. He had always found that the Protestant ascendency in the form of religious establishments was the paramount cause of the mode in which the power of the landlords had been used, and by which the relation of tenants was vitally affected, and thought Lord Stanley had anticipated too much in his policy upon the land question, and the misapprehension would attach to any representation that might be given now, but it was necessary to [...] of the appearance of having suggested a measure from fear of a panic or upon a momentary [...]. He concluded by saying that the government was anxious to substitute for the present condition a state of confidence in the country and loyalty to the crown.

Catherne Hardy, Conservative, urged the immediate removal of the Mayor of Cork. He considered that the Government was bound to declare its policy on the land question, and thus dissipate the unreasonable expectations of Ireland. The subject was then dropped.

LONDON, May 1.—Instructions have been sent to Commodore Phillibert, commanding the British West Indian squadron, to demand of the Spanish authorities in Cuba restoration of the brig Mary Lowell, and an apology for her seizure.

Advices from Paraguayan sources represent that Lopez with ten thousand men is preparing to take the offensive.

MADRID, May 1.—The debate in the Cortes on the new Constitution is ended. All the amendments proposed were rejected. The Cortes voted amnesty to all participants in the insurrection at Cadiz, Malaga and Xers. A motion by Costellar to extend the amnesty to the Carlists implicated in insurrectionary movements failed.

A serious disturbance is apprehended at Saragossa. It is reported that the troops there are discontented and in a state of partial insubordination.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3.—Ernest T. Richero, a German, aged 46, unmarried, committed suicide yesterday afternoon, at half past 2 o'clock, on Belden place, between Bush and Pine, near Montgomery. He requested leave of absence for the day of his employers, and appeared much vexed at their refusal. Shortly after, while at work in his employers' store room, a shot was heard, and on investigation, Richero was found with his skull almost entirely blown off, the pistol with which the deed was committed lying beside him. He was known to be of an unsound mind at the time of his death, and was for some time an inmate of the Asylum.

Twelve defaulting jurors were fined $500 each for contempt in the County Court to day.

Noah S. Arnold, who was convicted of assaulting a man with a heavy bar of iron, with intent to do bodily injury, was sentenced by the County Court to pay a fine of one thousand dollars or go to the county jail four hundred and fifty days.

A. Grob, artist, has sued W. Fitel in the 4th district, to recover $1,000 damages for converting to his own use, and imitating drawings, instruments, sketches, &c., valued at $1,000, the property of plaintiff.

The steamer Japan will sail for Yokahama and Hongkong at noon to-morrow.

Personal Notes.

Senator Ross denies the published report of his recent interview with the President.

The celebrated traveler, Livingstone, is reported to be in good health and on his way to England.

The Episcopalians of Vermont propose to erect a monument to the memory of the late Bishop Hopkins.

Senator Carpenter, of Wisconsin, has been invited to deliver the annual address before the next State Fair at Rochester, Minnesota.

Schuyler Colfax, wife and sister, accompanied by Governor Bross and daughter and Mr. Bowles and daughter, will visit California in August.

A private dispatch received in San Francisco, announces the reappointment of D. W. Cheesman to the office of United States Sub-Treasurer.

The New York Mail reports the marriage of a grandson of Washington Irving, which is funny, in view of the fact that Irving died a bachelor.

The proceeds of General Kilpatrick's lectures this winter are, he says, $30,000, of which he received one-third, and the G. A. R. the remainder.

Major Nicodemus, of the regular army, has been appointed by the President to the chair of Civil Engineering in the Western University at Pittsburg.

Hon. Manuel R. Gracia, the new Minister to the United States from the Argentine Republic, is a gentleman of rare culture and thorough Republican convictions.

Bishop Ames, of the Methodist Church, declared in a Conference held at Alexandria, Virginia, that "Tobacco was doing more harm to the Church than whisky."

The present Chairman of the Parisian Chamber of Paris started in life as the driver of a butcher's cart. He was a foundling, and has never been able to learn who his parents were.

The Lieutenant Governor of Louisiana, Mr. Dunn, is copper-colored, of fine proportions and respectable looking, with an intelligent cast of features, and is said to speak both French and English fluently.

Gov. Cox, the new Secretary of the Interior, is fully six feet high, slim in stature, of florid complexion, with dark hair and eyes, full whiskers, and is courteous and unassuming. His age is forty-one, but he does not look over thirty-five.

Francis Crosby, a man seventy nine years of age, a hardy Arizona pioneer and mountaineer, starts on the 15th of May to walk to New York city. He says he will accomplish the trip in seventy five days, and speaks with great confidence of his ability to perform the feat.

It has been stated that Secretary Seward intended visiting California, and a letter addressed by him to a friend in San Francisco confirms the statement. In that letter, under date of Auburn, March 30th, Mr. Seward says: "You are quite right in thinking that I hope to visit that coast [the Pacific] this Summer. I wish to examine personally the region which has been, at arm's length, one of my chief studies while in public life."

THE RAILROAD TERMINUS.—By the arrival of the steamer Oriflamme, it will be positively known where the Railroad Terminus on the Sound will be established, and [...] an army of men, equal to that of the grand Pacific Railroad, will be employed, who will build the road with all possible speed. The Depot, without further doubt, will be established at the well known house of KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91 Front street, where the finest, best and most stylish Clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods and Dry Goods can always be had, at such low prices that the most crabbed purchasers must be pleased.

HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER
HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.
Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.
It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha, so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.
It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

Senator Sumner on the "Alabama" Treaty

The speech of Hon. Chas. Sumner, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs, on the Johnson Clarendon treaty for the settlement of the Alabama and other claims, was made in the Senate April 13th. We have not space for the full text of this important speech, which was endorsed by Senators of both political parties, but make a few extracts from the most notable portions:

CHARACTER OF THE TREATY.

If we look at the negotiation, which immediately preceded the treaty, we find little to commend. You have it on your table. I think I am not mistaken when I say that it shows a haste which has few precedents in diplomacy, but which is explained by the anxiety to reach a conclusion before the advent of a new Administration. Mr. Seward and Mr. Reverdy Johnson both united in this unprecedented activity, using the Atlantic Cable freely. I should not object to haste or to the freest use of the cable, if the result were such as could be approved; but, considering the character of the transaction, and how completely the treaty conceals the main cause of offense, it seems as if the honorable negotiators were engaged in huddling something out of sight. The treaty has for its model the Claims Convention of 1853. To take such a Convention as a model was a strange mistake. This Convention was for the settlement of outstanding claims of American citizens on Great Britain, and of British subjects on the United States, which had arisen since the treaty of Ghent in 1815. It concerned individuals only and not the nation. It was not in any respect political, nor was it to remove any sense of national wrong. To take such a Convention as a model for a treaty which was to determine a national grievance of transcendent importance in the relations of two countries, marked on the threshold an insensibility to the true nature of the difference to be settled. At once it belittled the work to be done. An inspection of the treaty shows how, from beginning to end, it is merely for the settlement of individual claims on both sides, putting both batches on an equality—so that the sufferers by the misconduct of England may be counterbalanced by British blockade-runners. It opens with a preamble, which, instead of announcing the unprecedented question between the two countries, simply refers to individual claims which have arisen since 1853—which was the last time of settlement—some of which are still pending and remain unsettled. Who would believe that, under these words of common-place, was concealed that unsettled difference which has already so deeply stirred the American people, and is destined until finally adjusted to occupy the attention of the civilized world! Nothing here gives notice of the real question. I quote the preamble, as it is the key-note to the treaty:

"Whereas claims have at various times since the exchange of the ratifications of the Convention between Great Britain and the United States of America, signed at London on the 8th of February, 1853, been made upon the Government of her Britannic Majesty on the part of the citizens of the United States, and upon the Government of the United States on the part of the subjects of her Britannic Majesty, and whereas some of such claims are still pending and remain unsettled, Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the President of the United States of America, being of the opinion that a speedy and equitable settlement of all such claims will contribute much to the maintenance of the friendly feelings which subsist between the two countries, have resolved to make arrangements for that purpose by means of a Convention."

The provisions of the treaty are for the trial of these cases. The treaty not merely makes no provision for the determination of the great question, but it seems to provide expressly that it shall never hereafter be presented. The petty provision for individual claims, subject to a set-off from the individual claims of England, so that in the end our country may possibly receive nothing, is the consideration for this strange surrender. I borrow a term from an English statesman on another occasion, if I call it a "capitulation." For the settlement of a few individual claims we condone the original, far-reaching and destructive wrong. Here are the plain words by which this is done:

"The high contracting parties engage to consider the result of the proceedings of this Commission as a full and final settlement of every claim upon either Government arising out of any transaction of a date prior to the exchange of the ratifications of the present Convention, and further engage that every such claim, whether or not the same may have been presented to the notice of, made, preferred, or laid before the said Commission, be considered and treated as finally settled and barred, and thenceforth inadmissable."

All this I quote directly from the treaty. It is article five. The national cause is handled as nothing more than a bundle of individual claims, and the result of the proceedings under the proposed treaty is to be a "full and final settlement," so that hereafter all claims "shall be considered and treated as finally settled and barred, and thenceforth inadmissable." Here is no provision for the real question, which, though thrust out of sight, or declared to be finally settled and barred, according to the terms of the treaty, must return to plague the two countries.

THE PROCLAMATION OF BLOCKADE.

After showing that it was an infraction of international law for England to allow its soil to be used as "an arsenal in which the means of attack against a foreign government may be collected and prepared for use," Mr. Sumner proceeded to give the British argument in justification of that course. He says:

That England became an "arsenal" for the rebels we know, but this could not have been unless the proclamation had prepared the way. The only justification that I have heard for this extraordinary concession, which unleashed upon our country the furies of foreign war to commingle with the furies of rebellion at home, is that President Lincoln undertook to proclaim a blockade of the rebel ports. By the use of this word "blockade" the concession is vindicated. Had President Lincoln proclaimed a closing of the rebel ports, there could have been no such concession. This is a mere technicality. Lawyers might call it an apex juris; and yet on this sharp point England hangs her defence. It is sufficient that in a great case like the present, where the correlative duties of a friendly Power are in question, an act fraught with such potentous evil cannot be vindicated on a technicality. In this debate there is no room for technicality on either side. We must look at the substance and find a reason in nothing short of overruling necessity. War cannot be justified merely on a technicality, nor can the concession of ocean belligerency to rebels without a port or Prize Court. Such a concession, like war itself, must be at the peril of the nation making it. The British assumption, beside being offensive from mere technicality, is inconsistent with the proclamation of the President, taken as a whole, which, while appointing a blockade, is careful to preserve the rights of sovereignty, thus putting foreign Powers on their guard against any premature concession. After declaring an existing insurrection in certain States, and the obstruction of the laws for the collection of the revenue, as the motive of action, the President invokes not only the law of nations but the "laws of the United States," and, in further assertion of the national sovereignty, declares rebel cruisers to be pirates. Clearly the proclamation must be taken as a whole, and its different provisions so interpreted as to harmonize with each other. If they cannot stand together, then it is the "blockade" which must be modified by the national sovereignty, and not the national sovereignty by the blockade.

BRITISH COMPLICITY.

The Senator then recites the facts connected with the escape of the pirate ships from English ports, in spite of the repeated protests and warnings of the American Minister to England and of the American Consul to London and Liverpool. He then proceeds as follows:

The case is not yet complete. Mark now a new stage of complicity. Constantly the pirate ship was within reach of British cruisers, and from time to time within the shelter of British ports. For six days unmolested she enjoyed the pleasant hospitality of Kingston, in Jamaica, obtaining freely the coal and other supplies so necessary to her vocation. But no British cruiser, no British magistrate ever arrested the offending ship, whose voyage was a continuing "scandal and reproach" to the British Government. The excuse for this strange license is a strange technicality, as if a technicality could avail in this case at any stage. Borrowing a phrase from the master of Admiralty jurisprudence Sir William Scott, it is said that the ship "deposited her original sin at the conclusion of her voyage, so that afterwards she was blameless. But the Alabama never concluded her voyage until she sank under the guns of the Kearsarge, because she never had a port of her own. She was no better than the Flying Dutchman, and as long as she sailed was liable for that original sin which had impregnated every plank with an indelible dye. No British cruiser could allow her to proceed, no British port could give her shelter without renewing the complicity of England. Thus at three different stages the British government is compromised, first, in the concession of ocean belligerency, on which all depended; secondly, in the negligence which allowed the evasion of the ships in order to enter upon the hostile expedition for which she was built, manned, armed, and equipped and, thirdly, in the open complicity which, after this evasion, gave her welcome hospitalities and supplies in British ports. Thus her depredations and burnings, making the ocean blaze, all proceeded from England, which, by three different acts, lighted the torch. To England must be traced, also, all the wide-spread consequences which ensued. I take the case of the Alabama, because it is the best known, and because the building, equipment and escape of this ship were under circumstances most obnoxious to judgment; but it will not be forgotten, that there were consort ships built under the shelter of that fatal proclamation, issued in such an eclipse of just principles, and, like the ships it unloosed, "rigged with curses dark." One after the other ships were built; one after the other escaped on their errand; and, one after the other, they enjoyed the immunities of British ports. Audacity reached its height when iron-clad rams were built, and the perversity of the British Government became still more conspicuous by its long refusal to arrest these destructive engines of war, designed to be employed against the United States. The protracted hesitation, where the consequences were so menacing, is a part of the case. It is plain that the ships which were built under the safeguard of this ill-omened proclamation which stole forth from the British shores, and afterward enjoyed the immunities of British ports, were not only British in origin, but British in equipment, in armament and in crews. They were British in every respect, except in their commanders, who were rebel, and one of these, as his ship was about sinking, owed his safety to a British yacht, symbolizing the omnipresent support of England. British sympathies were active in their behalf. The cheers of a British passenger ship crossing path of the Alabama encouraged the work of piracy, and the cheers of the House of Commons encouraged the builder of the Alabama, while he had defended what he had done and exclaimed, in taunt to him who is now an illustrious member of the British Cabinet, John Bright, that he "would rather be handed down to posterity as the builder of a dozen Alabamas" than be the author of the speech of that gentleman "crying up" the institutions of the United States, which the builder of the Alabama, rising with his theme, declared "as of no value whatever, and as reducing the very name of liberty to an utter absurdity," while the cheers of the House of Commons echoed back his words. Thus from beginning to end, from the fatal proclamation to the rejoicing of the accidental ship and the rejoicing of the House of Commons, was this hostile expedition protected and encouraged by England.

The same spirit which dictated the swift concession of belligerency with all its deadly incidents, ruled the hour, entering into and possessing every pirate ship. There are two circumstances by which the whole case is aggravated. One is found in the date of the proclamation, which lifted the rebels to an equality with the National Government, opening to them everything that was open to us, whether ship-yard, foundries, or manufactories, and giving to them a flag on the ocean coequal with the flag of the Union. This extraordinary manifest was issued on the day before the arrival of our Minister in England, so that when, after an ocean voyage, he reached the British Government to which he was accredited, he found this great and terrible indignity to his country already perpetrated, and the flood-gates opened to infinite woes. The Minister had been announced; he was daily expected. The British Government knew of his coming. But in hottest haste they did this thing. The other aggravation is found in its flagrant, unnatural departure from that anti slavery rule, which, by manifold declarations, legislative, political, and diplomatic, was the avowed creed of England. Often was this rule proclaimed, but, if we except the great act of Emancipation, never more pointedly than in the famous circular of Lord Palmerston, while Minister of Foreign Affairs, announcing to all nations that England was pledged to the universal abolition of slavery. And now, when slaveholders, in the very madness of barbarism, broke away from the National Government and attempted to found a new empire with slavery as its declared corner stone, anti slavery England, without a day's delay, without even waiting the arrival of our Minister, who was known to be on his way, made haste to declare that this shameful and impossible pretension should enjoy equal rights with the National Government in her ship yards, foundries, and manufactories, and equal rights on the ocean. Such was the decree. Rebel slaveholders, occupied in a hideous attempt, were taken by the hand, and thus with the official protection and the God-speed of anti-slavery England, commenced their accursed work. I close this part of the argument by the testimony of Mr. Bright, who, in a speech at Rochdale, among his neighbors, February 3d, 1863, thus exhibits the criminal complicity of England:

"I regret more than I have words to express this painful fact, that of all the countries in Europe this country is the only one which has men in it who are willing to take steps in favor of this intended slave Government. We supply the ships, we supply the arms, the munitions of war; we give aid and comfort to the foulest of crimes. Englishmen only do it." Bright's Speeches, vol. 1, p. 239.

At last the rebellion succumbed. British ships and British supplies had done their work, but they failed. And now the day of reckoning has come; but with little apparent sense of what is due on the part of England. Without one soothing word for a friendly power deeply aggrieved, without a single regret for what Mr. Cobden, in the House of Commons, called "the cruel losses" inflicted upon us, for what Mr. Bright called "aid and comfort to the foulest of crimes," or for what a generous voice from Oxford University denounced as a "flagrant and maddening wrong," England simply proposes to submit the question of liability for "individual losses" to an anomalous tribunal, where chance plays its part. This is all. Nothing is admitted even on this question, no rule for the future is established, while nothing was said of the indignity to the nation, nor of the damages to the nation.

Mr. Sumner then shows how, in the case of the Chesapeake and the Leopard, and the steamer Caroline, the British Government did offer reparation to the nation, as well as to the individual sufferers. That in the former case covered the following points: First, the disavowal of the unauthorized act; secondly, the immediate restoration, so far as circumstances would permit, of the men forcibly taken from the Chesapeake; and thirdly, a suitable pecuniary provision for the sufferers in consequence of the attack on the Chesapeake.

NATIONAL AND INDIVIDUAL DAMAGES.

Next, quoting from tables showing the actual loss to the commerce of the United States by reason of the depredations of the Anglo-rebel pirates, the Senator passed to consider the greater damages inflicted upon the nation, as follows:

This is what I have to say at present on national losses through the destruction of commerce. These are large enough, but there is another chapter, where they are larger far. I refer, of course, to the national losses caused by the prolongation of the war and traceable directly to England. No candid person, who studies this eventful period, can doubt that the rebellion was originally encouraged by the hope of support from England; that it was strengthened at once by the concession of belligerent rights on the ocean; that it was fed to the end by British supplies; that it was quickened into renewed life with every report from the British pirates, flaming anew with every burning ship; nor can it be doubted that without British intervention the rebellion would have soon succumbed under the well directed efforts of the National Government. Not weeks or months, but years were added in this way to our war, full of the most costly sacrifice. The subsidies, which in other times England contributed to continental wars, were less effective than the aid and comfort which she contributed to the rebellion. It cannot be said too often that the naval base of the rebellion was not in America, but in England. Mr. Cobden boldly said in the House of Commons that England made war from her shores on the United States "with an amount of damage to that country greater than in many ordinary wars." According to this testimony, the conduct of England was war; but it must not be forgotten that this war was carried on at our sole cost. The United States paid for a war waged by England against a National Unity. The sacrifice of precious life is beyond human compensation; but there may be an approximate estimate of the national loss in money. The rebellion was suppressed at a cost of more than four thousand million dollars, a considerable portion of which has already been paid, leaving twenty-five hundred millions as a national debt to burden the people. If through British intervention the war was doubled in duration, or in any way extended, as cannot be doubted, then is England justly responsible for the additional expenditure to which our country was doomed; and, whatever may be the final settlement of these great accounts, such must be the judgment in any ... of the case. Perhaps I ought to anticipate an objection from the other side, to the effect that these national losses, whether from the destruction of our commerce or the prolongation of the war, are indirect and remote, so as not to be a just cause of claim. This is expressed at the common law by the rule that "damages must be for the natural and proximate consequence of an act." (Greenleaf, Ev., p. 210.) To this excuse the answer is explicit. The damages suffered by the United States are two-fold, individual and national, being in each case direct and proximate, although in the one case individuals suffered and in the other case the nation. It is easy to see that there may be occasions where, overtopping all individual damages, are damages suffered by the nation, so that reparation to individuals would be insufficient; nor can the claim of the nation be questioned simply because it is large, or because the evidence with regard to it is different from that in the case of an individual. In each case the damage must be proved by the best possible evidence, and this is all that law or reason can require. In the case of the nation the evidence is historic; and this is enough. Impartial history will regard the national loss from British intervention, and it is only reasonable that the evidence of these losses should not be excluded from judgment. Because the case is without precedent, because no nation ever before received such injury from a friendly power, this can be no reason why the case should not be considered on the evidence. Even the rule of the common law furnishes no impediment, for our damages are the natural consequences of what was done. But the rule of the Roman law, which is the rule of international law, is broader than that of the common law. The measure of damages, according to the Digest, is "whatever may have been lost or might have been gained;" quantum mihi abest, quantumque lucrari potui; and this same rule is to prevail in the French law, borrowed from the Roman law. This rule opens the door to ample reparation for all damages, whether individual or national. There is another rule of the common law in harmony with strict justice, which is applicable to the case. I find it in the law relating to nuisances, which provides that there may be two distinct proceedings, first, in behalf of individuals, and, secondly, in behalf of the community. Obviously reparation to individuals does not supersede reparation to the community. The proceeding in the one case is by action at law, and in the other, by indictment. The reason assigned by Blackstone for the latter is "because the damages being common to all the king's subjects, no one can assign his particular proportion of it." (3 Black. Com., p. 219.) But this is the very case with regard to damages sustained by the nation. A familiar authority furnishes an additional illustration, which is precisely in point:

"No person, natural or corporate, can have an action for a public nuisance, or punish it; but only the King in his public capacity of Supreme Governor and pater familias of the kingdom. Yet this rule admits of one exception; where a private person suffers some extraordinary damage beyond the rest of the King's subjects."—Tomlin's Law Dict., art. Nuisance.

Applying this rule to the present case, the way is clear. Every British pirate was a public nuisance, involving the British Government, which must respond in damages, not only to the individuals who have suffered, but also to the National Government, acting as pater familias for the common good of all the people. Thus by an analogy of the common law, in the case of a public nuisance, also by the strict rule of the Roman law, which enters so largely into international law, and even by the rule of the common law relating to damages, all losses, whether individual or national, are the just subject of claim. It is not I who say this; it is the law. The colossal sum total may be seen, not only in the losses of individuals, but in those national losses caused by the destruction of our commerce and the prolongation of the war, all of which may be traced directly to England.

Illud ab uno,
Corpore, et ex una pendebat origine bellum.

Three times is this liability fixed; first, by the concession of ocean belligerency, opening to the rebels shipyards, foundries and manufactories, and giving to them a flag on the ocean; secondly, by the organization of hostile expeditions, which, by the admissions in Parliament, were nothing less than piratical war on the United States with England as the naval base; and, thirdly, by welcome hospitality, and supplies extended to these pirate ships in ports of the British empire. Show either of these and the liability of England is complete. Show the three and this Power is bound by a triple cord.

CONCLUSION.

The Senator concluded his speech with the following language:

Be the claims more or less, they are honestly presented, with the conviction that they are just, and they should be considered candidly, so that they shall no longer lower like a cloud ready to burst upon two nations, which, according to their inclinations, can do each other such infinite injury or such infinite good. I know it is sometimes said that war between us must come sooner or later. I do not believe it. But if it must come, let it be later, then I am sure it will never come. Meanwhile, good men must unite to make it impossible. Again I say, this debate is not of my seeking. It is not tempting, for it compels criticism of a foreign Power with which I would have more than peace, more even than concord. But it cannot be avoided. The truth must be told, not in anger, but in sadness. England has done to the United States an injury most difficult to measure. Considering when it was done and in what complicity it is most unaccountable. At a great epoch of history, not less momentous than that of the French Revolution or that of the Reformation, when civilization was fighting a last battle with slavery, England gave her name, her influence, her material resources to the wicked cause and swung a sword into the scale with slavery. Here was a portentous mistake. Strange that the land of Wilberforce, after spending millions for emancipation, after proclaiming everywhere the truths of liberty, and ascending to glorious primacy in the sublime movement for the abolition of slavery, could do this thing. Like every departure from the rule of justice and good neighborhood, her conduct was pernicious in proportion to the scale of operations affecting individuals, corporations, communities, and the nation itself. And yet, down to this day, there is no acknowledgement of this wrong—not a single word. Such a generous expression would be the beginning of a just settlement, and the best assurance of that harmony between two great and kindred nations which all must desire.

Mark Twain on the Accordeon.

Mark was, as many other young men are at one period of their lives, anxious to learn music; tried first one instrument, then another, till ally he settled down to the accordeon. On that ul-stirring article of music he learned to play at melodious and popular air, "Auld Lang yne." For about a week he continued to tor re his unwilling hearers, when being of an in nious turn of mind, he endeavored to improve on the original melody by adding some variations his own. But who has ever seen a real geni succeed? Just as Mark had finished his only ne, and wound up with an admirable flour , the landlady rushed into his room, and said e:

"Do you know any other tune but that, Mr wain?" I told her meekly that I did not "Well, then," said she, "stick to it just as it don't put any variations to it, because it is ugh enough on the boarders the way it is ow."

The upshot was, that its "roughness" was soon ade manifest, for half the boarders left, and the her half would have left had not the landlady scharged Mark. Then, like the wandering Jew, r. Twain went from house to house. None would ndertake to keep him after one night's music; , at last, in sheer desperation, he went to board an Italian lady's, Mrs. Murphy by name. He ys:

"The first time I struck up the variations, a aggard, care-worn, cadaverous old man walked to my room, and stood beaming upon me a nile of ineffable happiness, and looking devoutly oft he said with feeling unction, "God bless you, oung man! God bless you! for you have done at which is beyond all praise. For years I have uffered from an incurable disease, and knowing at my doom was sealed, and that I must die, I ave [illegible] with all my power to resign myself my fate, but in vain, the love of my life was o strong within me. But Heaven bless you, [illegible] for since I heard you play that [illegible] I do not want to live [illegible] I am [illegible] resigned; I am willing die; in fact I am [illegible] to die!" and the old man fell upon my neck and wept a flood of [illegible] I was [illegible] at these things, but could not help giving the old man a parting last, in the way of some peculiarly lacerating va- [illegible] as he went out of the door. "HERE'S TO GENERAL GRANT, HIS FAMILY AND HIS FRIENDS."

The following are the words in which Count [illegible] proposed General Grant's health on the th of March:

Permit me, gentlemen, to interrupt your con- [illegible] a moment while I say a word about the ccasion which has brought us together. This is he day upon which, on the other side of the [illegible] the [illegible] commander in the service f the United States enters on his office as Pres- dent. That event, inasmuch as it deeply inter- sts the United States, has a special claim on he sympathy of [illegible] of this country, for it as a King of Prussia, Frederick II., who at he birth of the great American Republic, was he first among the non-belligerents to recognise s independence. As to our subsequent relations ith the United States, it gives me the greatest leasure to state as a fact, not only from my per- [illegible] as a Minister of Prussia, but rom the archives of our history, that the cordial nderstanding inaugurated by Washington and rederick has never suffered the slightest altera- ion. Not only has no difficulty ever arisen be- ween the two countries—nothing has ever oc- urred between them which so much as called for n explanation. It is, then, to me a most agree- ble as well as an appropriate duty to call on you o unite with me in drinking, in German wine, he health of the President of the United States, lysses Grant.

The President's Friends.—One or two of the ournals raise a great clamor about the Presi- ent appointing personal friends to office, as [illegible] was an [illegible] thing in connec- ion with American politics. If a President finds mong the men [illegible] known to him some [illegible] of fitting with ability public [illegible] a fortunate man, and does well to [illegible] He is responsible for the conduct his subordinates, and if he can get men whom knows to be capable and honest to accept sub- dinate places, he will be only the more certain at the country will be well served.

It is odd that nobody has complained yet that e persons appointed by General Grant are inca- ble or of improper character, but only that they e Grant's friends. Is it a crime, then, to have own the President?

The fact is that General Grant has appointed wer of his personal friends to office than any of [illegible] predecessors; but he has done what is done openly; he has concealed nothing. He [illegible] very easily have slipped in the name of a lative or friend among a "batch" of appoint- ents, and thus avoided notice. But he has not en— to hide anything.—Evening Post.

HIRAM SMITH'S

Ophthalmic Panacea!

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered.

It CURES the most stubborn and hopeless cases of CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS, GRANULATED LIDS, FILMS, &c., as has been sufficiently demonstrated dur ing the few months in which it has been brought into public notice. The proprietor is so fully convinced of its INFALIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR RE- FUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eyes no harm, and a trial of it is therefore without injury or expense to the patient if a cure is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN, and even EIGHTEEN YEARS' standing in Harrisburg, Linn county, Oregon, and its vicinity, to which the fol- lowing persons will bear witness:

E. B. MOORE,	NATHANIEL BELL,
A. L. WALLACE,	G. R. WARD,
Mrs. MONTGOMERY,	JOHN M. HOLLOWAY,
W. D. PORTER,	ROB'T RAMSEY,

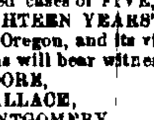

And others in that vicinity.

Persons afflicted with the distressing scourge of dis- eased eyes are advised to give this remedy a fair trial on the NO CURE, NO PAY and NO INJURY plan.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelli- gence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to every- thing of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,

AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

OF

Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana

TELEGRAMS FROM

THE EAST AND EUROPE

are published as full as in the California journals, and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE.

Among its corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on Eastern affairs, both politically and commercially from an Oregon stand- point.

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Port- land, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are ac- knowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the fore- most in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.

TERMS:

One Year	$3 00.
Six Months	2 00.
Three Months	1 00.

The Weekly Oregonian has been a favorite paper for mailing to friends in the East. It will be mailed from the office at subscription rates.

Subscribers will find on each paper, with their names, the date on which their subscriptions expire, as entered on our books. In renewing, the name of subscriber and post office should be distinctly written.

All papers are discontinued at the end of the time for which they have been paid, the date of which is always printed with the name each week.

REMIT BY MAIL AT OUR RISK, in presence of Postmaster, or pay to the nearest authorized agent.

We ask our friends to aid us in extending the circula tion of the Oregonian in every direction.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonor- rhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and fe- male, are there who are suffering out a [illegible] ence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, [illegible] ted and disfigured faces and their broken-down [illegible] tions, disqualifying them for the happiness of [illegible] or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thou- sands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mer- cury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pre- tended doctors who infest all cities, publishing [illegible] skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of [illegible] solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is [illegible] by the youth of both sexes to an almost [illegible] producing, with unerring certainty, the following of morbid symptoms, unless combated by [illegible] ical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, [illegible] about the loins, weakness of the limbs, [illegible] blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in ap- proaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, feted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and sci- entific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove [illegible] rily to him that he was cured of this complaint by any of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them [illegible] obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give any patient a written instrument, binding him to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating symp- toms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage or curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in a [illegible] letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and [illegible] who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the [illegible] Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Fran- cisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are [illegible] shoe- makers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office [illegible] etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Direc- tory for 1862 and 1865. The only way to [illegible] tion is to make enquiry—it will cost you [illegible] and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physi- cians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not decoy by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended [illegible] letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, cor- ner Commercial, (Private Entrance on Commercial) San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform Dr. G. that they read his advertisement in the Daily O.

FLOWERS.—A gentleman near this city, who understands horticulture well, furnishes the following seasonable hints about flowers. Be not in too much of a hurry to bring out your house plants permanently for the summer. We always have frost about the first part of May. It is well to set them on the porch first and harden them some. A shade against the afternoon sun should always be looked to for house plants. The early morning sun is very beneficial for plants of all kinds. The middle of May is the safest time to bring out tender plants. It is often desirable later in the season, or even in winter, and now is the time to provide for this by pinching off the flower buds as fast as they appear. Roses can thus be had in July, after the 1st of June bloom, for even the perpetual or monthly roses take a rest after each flowering. By removing all the buds on half the branches of each bush, or all buds from every other bush, now, will insure a full bloom at midsummer. China and tea roses are called daily roses, and do not require this treatment only remove the faded flowers. Let no seeds ripen on any plant that you wish to bloom again. If you have any seeds to sow yet, be careful not to cover too thick; the rule is cover each kind as thick with fine, sandy soil as the seed is. Shading from the heat of the sun is very desirable. I have most of my seeds to sow yet in the garden. It is best to sow in warm soil.

EAST LYNNE.—This interesting piece as presented by the Bates theatrical troupe, at Oro Fino Theater, on the occasion of their farewell performance last Saturday evening, drew a fair house, and its rendition elicited hearty [illegible] from all present. Mr. Bates as Archibald Carlyle and Mrs. Bates as Lady Isabel and Madame Vine were frequently applauded, as in fact were many other portions of the play by the other members of the troupe. We regret to state that this excellent troupe intend sailing on the Ajax, now in port, for San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Bates in their efforts to make the [illegible] a success have been untiring. The citizens of Portland owe them a debt of gratitude for their labors in striving to elevate the character of the drama in our city, and to render the stage an object worthy of the public. We regret that our people have not more [illegible] rewarded these exertions, and hope that should [illegible] return to Portland they will meet with greater [illegible]. On their departure from among us we [illegible] the sentiments of all those who have [illegible] their acquaintance or seen them on the stage when we wish them great prosperity in all the future. They have commended themselves to the good wishes of all for [illegible]. The past dramatic season will be looked upon as the best ever seen in our city.

ACCIDENT.—Yesterday afternoon, as the pro[illegible] from the funeral of Mrs Watson, [illegible] to a buggy in which were Mrs. F. Miller [illegible] became frightened and ran away. Coming [illegible] at East Portland, by some means horse [illegible] off the track, and precipitated to the ground, [illegible] of twenty-five feet, carrying buggy and all [illegible]. It was a matter of surprise that any one in the [illegible] escaped, owing to the [illegible] which the horse [illegible] and the distance of the fall; Mrs. Miller was [illegible] injured, though to exactly what extent, we were [illegible] to ascertain. We learn, however, that her skull was fractured, one of her limbs broken and probably some severe internal injuries received. She was [illegible] to her home in this city, suffering greatly in the meanwhile, and placed under the care of Dr. Chapman. We have often remarked the want of judgment, and [illegible] a great lack of propriety, on the part of persons returning from funerals, in the manner of driving [illegible] we do not attach any blame to any one in the [illegible] instance, we know that in many cases [illegible] there is an unseemly haste on the part of some in trying to see who can arrive at the ferry first. People ought to manifest more reverence for the solemnity of the [illegible].

[illegible]ATION.—The following communication from a [illegible] in this city, in reference to an item which appeared in the evening Commercial last Saturday, is handed to us with a request for its publication:

OREGONIAN:

In the C[illegible] of last Saturday, the local of that [illegible], describing a "knock-down" which occurred at the foot of the stairs below his office, was so c[illegible] as to give the names of the combatants. He is very charitable indeed, but unprejudiced [illegible] view his article, taken altogether, in the [illegible] light, for in further speaking of the same matter [illegible] "It was between two Jewish merchants, well [illegible] in this city." Now, I, for one, cannot see the [illegible] of giving the particular religion of the merchants. It is not customary to state to what church other [illegible] belong or of what sect they are, when items [illegible] to them are published, and why an exception [illegible] be made when reference is had to one of my faith, [illegible] than I can comprehend. A JEW.
[illegible], May 2d, 1869.

BOYS WANTED.—We understand that some quite young [illegible] by the above advertisement, have left their [illegible] in this city without the consent of their parents [illegible] gone down the river to the [illegible]on fisheries. We do not believe that the agents of the fishing company would [illegible] very young boys who have parents here, to go [illegible], unless the consent of the parents was given, but [illegible] this fact that parents who have sons may see [illegible] they are at home, as we heard of two or three who [illegible] to the [illegible] a few evenings since, and as they did not return that night, search being made for them next [illegible] it was found that they had concluded that ["boys] were wanted" more at the salmon fisheries than in [illegible] and had accordingly gone there. To young men or boys [illegible] dependent upon themselves, the advertisers offer a good [illegible] for employment, at fair wages, but no boy ought to go without his parent's consent.

U. S. [illegible] COURT. DEADY, J.—Proceedings of Saturday, May 1st:

In the [illegible] of W. C. Wetmore; in bankruptcy; ar[illegible] of bankrupt to amend schedule. Bybee [illegible]; Fechheimer for opposing creditor.

John C. Work admitted to the bar of this court.

In the [illegible] of Muller & Bre[illegible]; continued to Saturday next.

[illegible] of J. H. McCabe, bankrupt; hearing on [illegible] for [illegible] continued until next Saturday.

[illegible] till this morning.

[illegible] CONCERT.—Yesterday we attended the [illegible] of the Methodist Sabbath School and found it to be an occasion of much interest. About three [illegible], mostly children, were present, all of [illegible] to be earnestly engaged in the exercises. [illegible] of singing, essays, addresses, declamations. An original dialogue, spoken by two boys, was very well gotten up and well spoken, but a remark [illegible] in it, reflecting upon another denomination, [illegible] appropriate.

[illegible].—Messrs. Knapp, Burrell & Co., have on hand one of the most extensive assortments of agricultural implements, seeds, etc., etc., [illegible] for sale in Oregon. Mr. Burrell, whose [illegible] him an excellent judge of the wants of [illegible] of this coast has lately returned from the [illegible] he purchased a large stock and now offers to [illegible] to farmers and others at reasonable prices. Every [illegible] who digs, plows, plants or reaps should call and [illegible] their stock, at No. 100 Front street.

A[illegible].—We are informed that an item published in the Herald on Saturday, upon information received from a third party, stating that a man had been arrested [illegible] in East Portland, caused a disagreement between the proprietor of the paper and Mr. Hicks, the local editor, which resulted in the withdrawal of the latter from his position. Mr. H., in quitting the reportorial corps, carries with him the respect and good wishes of the fraternity.

[illegible].—From yesterday's Herald we learn that [illegible] have been subscribed to bring the South Yamhill [illegible] into McMinnville. The ditch will be fifteen miles [illegible].

Judge Reed will not canvass Washington Territory for the Democrats......A criminal, hermit or spook has been quite often of late in the vicinity of Union [illegible] house. He, or it, runs away into the brush on [illegible] of any one.

GONE TO WORK.—We are informed that no bids were [illegible] for the contract for building the Odd Fellows' Hall, but that arrangements have been made to begin the [illegible] for the basement at once under the supervision of one fully competent. The work will then be forwarded with as much dispatch as practicable and efforts [illegible] to have it enclosed before another rainy season.

WHEAT.—The San Francisco Commercial Herald estimates that the growing crop of wheat in California will [illegible] 10,000,000 centals, and in Oregon at 2,000,000 [illegible] for export. During the past three months the [illegible] of breadstuffs from San Francisco have fallen [illegible] 467 barrels of flour, and gained 6,832 centals of [illegible], as compared with the first three months of last year.

RUNAWAY.—A runaway occurred in East Portland yesterday besides the one from which Mrs. Miller was so badly hurt. Two horses ran off with a carriage in which were two men, throwing the men out, bruising them badly and making a "total wreck" of the buggy. We could not obtain the names of those who were the sufferers by this mishap.

SHEEP FOR VICTORIA.—John R. Jackson brought down on the Onward, Saturday evening, 100 head of wethers from east of the mountains, to be shipped to Fred Reynolds, contractor for the navy. This is the first lot of sheep brought for market from east of the mountains and are in very fine condition. They will be driven to the [illegible].

REMOVALS.—Rosenfeldt & Co. have removed to the old brick building of Ladd & Tilton, corner of Front and Stark streets.

[illegible]tte & Vallard have removed to the building formerly [illegible] by Randall & Sunderland, at the corner of First and Alder.

MAY DAY.—We are informed that some three or four of the principal Sabbath schools in this city intend celebrating this festival by a pic-nic on next Saturday week. Owing to the uncertainty of the weather it has been customary to hold these festivals at a later day than in other [illegible].

RETURNED.—Among the passengers by the Ajax we notice several old residents of Portland, who have been to the Eastern States. Among them, C. D. Burch, D. [illegible], and Charles Woodard, Esqs. The latter says he saw no finer looking or better country than Oregon in all his travels.

CALL FOR YOUR PAPERS.—Miss Barrett requests us to say that owing to absence of her father from the city, and the ill[illegible] of Mr. Barlow, his clerk, subscribers who have [illegible] received their papers at their residences, will please call at the Bookstore and get them.

COURTS.—The United States District Court, Hon. M. P. Deady, Judge, presiding, will convene this morning. The County Court, Judge Marquam, will convene this [illegible] at the usual hour.

[illegible] of the above book says: "When we first saw this law Latin title, we supposed it had reference to some litigation respecting a Spaniard and his association—perhaps the famous noble chief of that name in California; we were surprised, however, to find that it was the title of a book written by C. H. Miller, and published by S. J. McCormick, Portland, Oregon. Long articles then appeared in the newspapers, calling 'Joaquin, et al.' poetry. The reviewers led us to expect a volume of some size and pretension. The book itself is a modest looking, beautiful little work, which does great credit to Oregon art as a specimen of typography and binding. But it is not poetry, although the author seemeth to have been [illegible]
Of [illegible]
That [illegible]"

OREGON PRODUCTS.—We are glad to see that Oregon appears in the Report of the Department of Agriculture at last. David Newson, Esq., of Marion county, furnishes the February number with the following estimate of crops in Oregon during the year 1868. Wheat, [illegible] bushels, oats [illegible] bushels, barley [illegible] bushels, potatoes [illegible] bushels; wheat averaged 22 bushels to the acre, oats [illegible], rye [illegible], barley [illegible], potatoes [illegible], turnips 175, rutabagas 474, parsnips 17[illegible], carrots 300, beans 15, corn 150, peas 25, flaxseed 16, apples 50, pears [illegible], hay 1½ tons.

THE AJAX.—This vessel arrived at her berth at thirty minutes past five [illegible] yesterday morning. She brought about 400 tons of freight and a large number of passengers a list of whom may be found elsewhere. She spoke the Gussie Telfair in the Columbia river.

ELECTION.—The voters of Oregon City choose their city officers to-day. The Republicans nominated a full ticket last Saturday evening, and propose to elect it to-day.

HE COMES.—Purser Biles—all know him hereabouts—is reported coming this way from the East. He will be here soon and will be numerously welcomed.

THANKS.—We are very thankful to the purser of the Ajax and to Wells, Fargo & Co. for the latest files of all the San Francisco papers.

PERSONAL.—We learn that Hon. J. H. Mitchell will leave San Francisco for Portland this morning. He comes overland.

THE ROADS.—The roads throughout the Willamette valley are reported to be in excellent condition.

The following is an extract from a private letter written by the Proprietors of the Plantation Bitters.

"We had no conception of the wide-spread suffering which exists, or of the almost infallible cures produced by PLANTATION BITTERS, when we first commenced offering them for sale. We now find that every house has a weak child, an ailing parent or a debilitated aged member, who need this Tonic. Our Laboratory has grown from a single room to an immense building, and our sales from a few bottles to many hundred dozens per day, and we are glad to know that they have done you so much good."

IT is nothing more than the truth, if people tell you that though KOHN & FISHEL are not selling off at cost, they nevertheless do sell at lower rates than any other house in Oregon. Their stock of Clothing cannot be surpassed. It is undoubtedly the finest, neatest and most fashionable in the State. Every person would do well to call on Kohn & Fishel, No. 91 Front street, before purchasing elsewhere.

MR. M. REESE, the millionaire of San Francisco, visited and patronized THE OREGON DISPENSARY on his first arrival in this city, because he heard that it was the cheapest and most elegant Drug Store on the coast. We also are furnishing the toilet articles and medicines to the guests of Mr. Holladay for the excursion trip to Victoria and Puget Sound, which is a further evidence of our increased popularity. Everybody now procures all articles in our line at THE DISPENSARY because our medicines and goods are fresh, pure and cheap.

G. VENARD,
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.
HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best quality, CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 3, 1869.

Candid.

The bed-rock Democracy of Washington Territory are significantly silent about the war record of their candidate for Congress. They are evidently under the belief that, considering the attitude which the bed-rockers assumed and maintained during the war, the least said about that the better. The Herald steers as wide of the subject as possible. War records which show the man to have been serviceable to the Union cause, are rocks upon which Democrats are extremely liable to split. The party split upon Blair's war record, last year, and went under. These cautious Washington Territory fellows do not intend, evidently, to run upon that rock in the canvass, this summer. The bed-rocker's position is that Col. Moore—or as they prefer to call him, Marshall Moore—is a good fellow and a good Democrat, his greatest fault as an available candidate being that he has a war record, though, to be sure, it is not an exceedingly brilliant one. Even Bariah's Press, which belongs to the more conservative branch of the Democratic family, in announcing the nomination of Moore, takes occasion to put his war record out of the canvass in the following Democratic sentences: "In commanding the military career of Gen. Moore, we will not be guilty of the duplicity of pretending that it had the approval of our judgment. * * * We believed then, as we now know, that every man who volunteered in the Federal army became an instrument in the hands of the ruling party for the destruction of the Union and the subversion of our republican system of Government * * * Nor have we ever ceased to keenly sympathize with those victims of misplaced confidence and the surviving relatives and friends of the thousands who were betrayed to their death by the false pretences of the ruling powers. All who will, now see that the war was the most stupendous fraud ever perpetrated by any government upon a confiding people."

From these extracts it will be seen how utterly impossible it will be for Gen. Moore to make his war record available with the Democracy in the past canvass, and how it will hang like a millstone about his neck. Nor can he make it serviceable in seducing Republicans into his support, for they cannot trust or respect the man who deliberately, through pique or covetousness of office, turns his back upon the cause for which he fought, and casts his lot with those who during the war were enemies of the Union and friends of the now "lost cause."

Local Notes.

The Young Men's Christian Association of San Francisco, has issued a call for a State Convention of delegates from the various associations of the State, to be held at San Francisco, on Friday, May 14th.

A statement is published that Commodore George Washington Morrison Nutt—"Tom Thumb"—and wife are coming to the Pacific coast on the first excursion train over the Union Central Pacific railroad.

The Herald, with Pecksniffian modesty apologizes for a supposed injury it had done Judge Deady, in charging that gentleman with something or other. The apology was totally unnecessary, as nothing that paper could say, would be in the least likely to injure Judge Deady, or "any other man," unless it should take to commend him. In that case, the object might become "suspect."

The Herald is now receiving the same pay per square for the public printing as did the OREGONIAN three years ago. The Democrats now in the Council got into office by howling against such "extravagance" and promising the people to cut down the expenditures. The ... they got into power, however, they ... and not only authorized the same "extravagant" rates to be continued but ordered the amount to be more than doubled. The printing "extravagance" was, therefore, cut down from $450 per year to $1,000 and upward!

Gen. Halleck arrived at San Francisco last week having made the journey overland from the East. He is to take command in the Division of the Pacific. When the late rebellion broke out, he was stationed at Palo Alto, Texas; but unlike most of the other officers stationed at the South, he refused to join the traitors, and immediately went North where his brilliant career as a Union soldier, soon raised him to the rank of Major General of volunteers. His present rank in the regular army is Colonel of the Twenty-first Infantry, with the brevet rank of Major General.

A correspondent of the San Francisco Herald argues that the cause of the defeat of the Democracy in 1868, may be attributed to the fact that the party was continually engaged in putting secessionists in all the prominent, leading positions, and in glorifying the careers and characters of secessionists. The Herald, in a brief editorial note, disclaims its agreement with this view of its correspondent. And the Herald is doubtless nearest right, for a party whose rank and file are secessionists and secession sympathizers, if they are any thing, cannot suppose to object to their representative men. Nominate an original secessionist to office, and every man who claims to be a Democrat will vote for him. But nominate one of such doubtful Democracy as to have a record for Unionism, no matter if that record be somewhat blotted, and a large per cent. of the bed rock Democrats won't vote for him. That was what was the matter with Seymour and Blair last fall. Democrats couldn't come up to the rack, and hence they were beaten worse than would have been Pendleton and Vallandigham.

The proposition to have railroad celebrations upon the completion of the Union and Central Pacific trunks, is being quite generally discussed and accepted. Sacramento, without waiting for her "big sister's" approval, has already undertaken the preliminary arrangements, and numerous of the interior towns of California and Nevada are moving in the same direction. The press everywhere is speaking in favor of general and local celebrations. As yet, owing to the uncertainty of the day upon which the connection of the two lines may occur, the day for celebrating has not been agreed upon. It is probable that in the case of the local celebrations, each town or district may select its own day, but it is likely that all will occur during the month of June. It is announced that an excursion train will leave St. Louis, Mo., for Sacramento city by the Union and Central Pacific Railroads about the 1st of June. Invitations have been issued, and the party, which is composed of capitalists and politicians, have limited the time of the excursion to one month, returning the first of July. The principal celebration for the Pacific coast will doubtless take place upon the arrival of this excursion party, about the middle of June.

Letter from Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 10, 1869.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

To the citizen of the ... whose long absence from the land of ... and those most near, not only by consanguinity and love, but by the scarcely less sacred social relations, causes him to look forward with joy to his contemplated return, it is a privilege of which he may feel proud, to be permitted to speak to friends at home through the columns of the OREGONIAN. It is now nearly five months since I left Portland, since which time I have ... visited very many of the States and ... principal cities and towns and spent over three months in the National Capital, and ... to admit that in all my travels I have not seen a city or town, of the size of Portland, that exhibits anything like the unmistakable evidence of ... healthy ... and vitalizing energy tending to rapid growth and permanency, that must be evident to the most casual observer in reference to our metropolis. Nor have I seen any place that has for a moment caused me to regret that my lot has been cast in Portland, Oregon, and it is a painful fact, that notwithstanding the absolute greatness of our State in all those substantial elements that, in our climate, soil, and various resources, combine to speak her present greatness, and prognosticate for her a brilliant future, we are scarcely known on this side of the continent. The manifest ignorance of the people here of Oregon as a State, her territorial extent, resources, trade, commerce, and population, is so apparent to every one who has ever lived in Oregon and subsequently traveled through the East, that it is really surprising. Our State is regarded here, more as an isolated dependency out off from the United States, than as a young but vigorous enterprising State, destined, as it is, at no distant day, to become the star of the Pacific. A few days since I stepped into a dry goods store in this city to make a small purchase. The gentleman at the counter appeared intelligent and much inclined to conversation and withal a little inquisitive; and he finally enquired where I resided. I answered him, "in Oregon," and you should have seen the expression of astonishment that covered his countenance as he started back and said, "what, in Oregon? way out in Oregon Territory!" and he gazed at me as though I were a barbarian just fresh from the region of the Hottentots. Another little instance will give some idea of the unpardonable ignorance that exists generally among the people of the Atlantic States in reference to Oregon. I some three months since visited an old friend in Pennsylvania; he is a wealthy farmer, surrounded by his flocks and herds, with fine orchards and all such like. The conversation turning on Oregon, he inquired of me if it was safe where I lived in Portland for a person to remain out on the streets after dark. Said I, no sir; why so? He replied, on account of the Indians. He supposed they were very hostile all through that country. While we were conversing his little daughter brought in a basket of apples. He handed me one and said, I suppose, of course, this is something you never see" and when I informed him that, in my judgment, Oregon was the first fruit growing State in the Union, he appeared horrified. These are but fair samples of the questions daily propounded to Oregonians traveling on this side the Rocky Mountains, by men to whom are accredited an ordinary amount of intelligence. Of course there are persons all through the country that have a fair understanding of the extent of our resources, population and trade, but they are the rare exceptions, while the great mass are slumbering in a state of the most inexcusable ignorance in reference to these matters. And those Oregonians who will exert themselves to bring before the minds of the people of the Atlantic States, whose crowded thoroughfares and well filled coffers must soon compel them to seek new homes and new fields of investment for their surplus funds, the many advantages that are presented within the limits of our State, whose slumbering resources are lying to a great extent dormant, awaiting the touch of the vitalizing influences of labor and capital, will accomplish much towards advancing the material prosperity of our State, and the general good of our commonwealth.

The first session of the forty-first Congress adjourned sine die to-day at noon, after a session of nearly six weeks; and although the Democracy predicted a rupture between President Grant and the Union Republican party, their prophecies have wholly failed and their hopes have "vanished into thin air." The modification of the tenure of office bill as finally agreed upon by Congress and approved by the President, is the result of a perfect understanding prior to the passage of the bill, between the President and the dominant party in both Houses. And while many members of the Union party in both branches of Congress would have preferred a total repeal on account of their implicit faith in the new President, the majority, whose faith in the Executive was no less implicit, preferred a modification in order that the great overshadowing principles of our government embodied in the original law might be retained in some form upon the statute book of the nation; and in this decision of the majority, which I regard as eminently wise as the recognition and perpetuity in legislative form of the vital principles of our government, is infinitely of greater importance than any mere compliment to any living man, however good or great, the minority cheerfully and heartily acquiesced. Those, therefore, who hope for any material disagreement between the Executive and his political friends—the great Union Republican party of the nation—upon any of the leading measures of that party, are doomed to disappointment. The nation having become rid of that confirmed egotist and recreant Executive, Andrew Johnson, who sought to make this free Republican Government a despotism, subjecting the administration of its government alone to his arbitrary dictation, and having placed in his stead a man who regards the will of the people as the great overshadowing law of the land, by the light of which this government is to be administered, we may now confidently hope for a new era indeed, wherein our Republic will move forward under the guidance and control of that man and that party who in our darkest hour of peril saved our nation from the fangs of treason, and wiped from its fair face its foulest curse, to a position of peace and prosperity and pre-eminence among the nations of the world heretofore not attained by any nationality known to history. The Union Republican party is, in my judgment, infinitely stronger, more united, and more powerful to-day than ever before; and why should it not be? Its history is all radiant with deeds of glory that will cause its leaders and heroes to be remembered by future ages with delight; while its principles, like "clusters of truth upon the vines of God" will radiate through the history of all good governments to the end of time, nor will the rank and file who have voted and fought in the more obscure positions in carrying forward the banner of that party from victory to victory during the struggles of the past few years, fail to be remembered by coming generations, while the memories of our fallen heroes, while bearing up the stars and stripes of our nationality upon our many battle-fields, were encouraged and supported by this party, modern Democracy in the meanwhile crying out, cruel, unconstitutional, unjustifiable war, surrendered up their lives upon their country's altar, will live forever green and pure as the verdure upon the shores of the river of life in the grateful remembrance of all true patriots in every age and clime. Within the past week I have stood upon the heights of Arlington, a solitary mourner at the grave of a loved brother whose young life was crushed out beneath the burning plowshare of war, and as I gazed in sadness upon the white headboards that rose in that silent city of the nation's dead, ... in lengthening columns like angel sentinels sent from the world of light to guard the last resting place of the fifteen thousand noble patriots who perished in the wild conflict of arms, and as I lifted my eyes toward the glorious emblem of our nationality which they died to save, and which through the grateful remembrance of this nation floats day by day in sublime beauty over their honored graves, I felt more than ever that the ... it was good, and great, and glorious ... in contending for a cause so pre-eminently grand as the preservation and perpetuity of our nation ... and the transmission to posterity of the invaluable heritage of human liberty and free government, and when I reflected that the great Union Republican party stood by these noble men who ... battling for the right, and ... occupied a position just the reverse ... an overpowering conviction ... deserves and would receive the ... sympathy and support of all good men, while the ... deserves and would receive their everlasting ... denunciation.

During the last ten hours of the late Congress, as you have already learned by telegrams, the long continued fight over the passage of what is known as the East Side Railroad Bill came to an end by the passage of the bill by both Houses of Congress and the approval by the President, although the advocates of the West Side labored long and faithfully. ... they deserve much credit from the West Side company, the bill passed both Senate and House by an almost unanimous vote. The great hope of the West Side was that they could prevent action on the bill by a well devised system of tactics, such as talking against time, dilatory motions to amend, etc., but this, fortunately for the people of the State generally, did not prevail, and although it had the effect of prolonging the fight, it did not eventually prevent the passage of the bill. And in this connection I desire to say a few words personal to Senator Williams, as I understand that he has been condemned by some of those interested in the West Side Company for the active support he gave to this bill. This is unjust in the extreme, and must so appear to every sensible, unprejudiced mind who will take the trouble to investigate the facts in relation to this ... and to ... the law just passed ... of course, ... the grant ... by the terms of that act the grant was to go to such company organized under the laws of Oregon as the Legislature might designate—the law provided further that the company designated should file its assent in the Department of the Interior within one year from the date of the passage of that act. The West Side claims to have been designated by the Legislature of 1866, and to have filed its assent within the year. This is the claim; but what are the facts? The Legislature of 1868 decided, and very correctly too, that the West Side had no existence during the session of 1866, and that they were not designated. The Secretary of the Interior decided, January 28th, 1869, precisely the same thing, and also decided that unless our bill, or something similar to it, passed Congress, and became a law, that neither company could get the land grant, that the State would lose it, and it would revert to the general government. The Legislature, in the meantime, had designated the East Side, but the time for filing assent had expired, what then was proper and right to be done, and what, I enquire of the people of Oregon, should Senator Williams, or any other Senator having the general good of the whole State in view, and the advancement of any particular company to the prejudice of any other have done? Should he, I enquire, have taken the position occupied by the advocates of the West Side, and refused to do anything, and that, too, in the face of the decision of our Legislature and the Secretary of the Interior, that such a course would lose the grant to the State, or should he not rather have done just what he did—advocate the passage of a bill that would save the grant to the State, leaving to the department and the courts which company was properly designated? Is not this fair, just and right? Can any man reasonably object to it? But, say the West Sider's, the effect of this act is to give its grant to the East Side Company. This may be true, and in my judgment it most unquestionably is true, but it is not true if the claim of the West Side, that they were properly organized and properly designated by the Legislature of 1866, is true, because this act gives the grant to the company that was so organized and designated. And if the Department or the courts should hold that the West Side were so organized and designated, then they under this act will get the grant, and they in such event ought, in my judgment, to have it. If, on the contrary, the Department and the courts should decide that the West Side were never designated, if that company have faith enough in the correctness of their position to ever attempt to contest the thing, then I submit that they are not entitled to it and ought not to have it. But suppose this act had not been passed, would the West Side be any better off? Certainly not, because in that event neither company would get the grant, and through a foolish controversy the State would be deprived of the means of getting a railroad. Senator Williams instead of being blamed should receive the unanimous approbation for his course in relation to this matter of every citizen of Oregon, who places the interests of the State at large above the petty considerations of this or that particular company; and especially have the people of Oregon reason to rejoice at the success of this measure, as it insures to them beyond a question a railroad at no distant day. As I stated in my last letter, without going into details, iron in large quantities, will be laid down in Oregon by the contractors of the East Side road at no distant day, and in ample time to have a good portion of the road in running order next fall.

On Tuesday last Mrs. President Grant held her first jubilee reception in the White House, and I am very proud to say that on that occasion Oregon was accorded a most distinguished compliment, as Mrs. Senator Williams was, by special invitation, the chief assistant to the right of Mrs. Grant at this brilliant reception, where thronged not only hundreds of the principal leading men and women of this nation, but also distinguished representatives from nearly every civilized nation on the globe. Not a little jealousy was created by the selection of Mrs. Williams, and very many Mrs. Senators who fancy they are entitled to preference, did not succeed very well in concealing their regret that they were not the favored ones. This compliment to Mrs. Williams has a double aspect, while it is a most deserving one to her personally for her intelligent and ladylike demeanor in Washington, it is an evidence also of that high regard in which Senator Williams is held by the President of the United States, and from close observations during my three months stay in Washington, I have no hesitation in saying that Senator Williams has no superior in point of ability and influence, and very few equals in the Senate of the United States, and well may our State feel proud of such a Senator, and while it is expected that the Democrats of Oregon will, in 1870, do all in their power to defeat any radical, I am free to give it, as my opinion, that the Union party of the State should be as one man in labor ing for his re-election.

Having fully accomplished the purpose for which I came to Washington, I shall, on Monday, leave for Oregon. Very Respectfully,

J. H. MITCHELL.

Railroad Connection

Reliable information from the Union Pacific and Central Pacific Railroads, states that the Union company are making only two miles per day and the Central only one mile, the latter having to do slow rock and trestle work. The gap between the two roads last Monday was about twenty miles. It will not, therefore, be closed before the last of the present week, and the event may be postponed till next week. A special dispatch to the Bulletin states that Brigham Young will forthwith begin a branch from Ogden to Salt Lake. The same authority gives the encouraging information that the Central Pacific Company will soon commence operations on the branch road to Oregon, and on the California and Oregon road north of Marysville.

A letter from White Pine, April 22d, says "the departures from Hamilton exceed the arrivals." The mad dream of White Pine is nearly over.

Greeley on the Russel Young Affair.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Greeley has an article in the Tribune, signed with his initials, which expresses his belief that the charge against J. Russel Young, that he abused his position in the Tribune for private ends, is false and unfounded, and says the publication of the correspondence was simply an outrage. He calls for a full investigation of the charge that Young improperly furnished the Associated Press news. Greeley further says: "Young has not been removed or suspended or in any manner condemned. It is not for us ... to pass judgment on mere indictment."

GENTLEMEN: It is with regret that we learn that a report has been circulated in Portland, Oregon, that your Company had refused, or would not recognize the claim of Mrs. Hannah Meier, widow of Julius A. Meier, deceased on the ground that deceased had been murdered. We are at a loss to understand how such a report originated, as you had assured us from the day of his death, that his claim would be promptly paid as soon as the necessary proofs of his death were furnished.

We now have to thank you and also Mr. C. F. Ferry, your agent at Portland, not only for your assistance in arranging the requisite proofs, but for the prompt payment of the TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS, the amount of said policy, which affords the most substantial proof of the utter falsity of the report alluded to.

Yours very truly, for Mrs. Hannah Meier and her brother in law.

THE ACADEMY.

PUPILS CAN ENTER THE

PORTLAND ACADEMY

AND

Female Seminary!

AT ANY TIME BY PAYING FOR THE REMAINder of the Quarter. No effort will be spared to secure the advancement of Students and maintain in the School. We try to make the Academy worthy of the liberal patronage it receives.

The boys will engage in the Military Drill (Upton's) under direction of Capt. Mills, of the Washington Guard. The Drill is found conducive to good discipline, and teaches promptness, and erectness of carriage.

The next Quarter will begin Monday, May 17, 1869. For full information address
